are even my witnesses. Is there a God beside me? yea, there is no
God; I know not any .
