

A photograph of a river flowing over dark, mossy rocks. The water is turbulent, creating white rapids and foam as it cascades over the stones. The background shows more rocks and some green moss. The text is overlaid on the upper half of the image.

Isaiah 21:12 The watchman said,
The morning cometh, and also the night: if ye will inquire, inquire ye:
return, come.